Introduction

The Patton College of Education (PCOE) at the University of Pikeville would like to express sincere gratitude to each cooperating teacher for making the commitment to work with a teacher candidate (TC) through the Clinical II: Student Teaching portion of teacher education. The cooperating teacher's collaboration will give the TC valuable experiences that will enhance his or her classroom preparation. Through the student teaching experience, the TC will develop practical skills and knowledge to become a highly-skilled teacher. Therefore, cooperating teachers are key components in teacher preparation process. We have confidence that the cooperating teachers who work with our teacher candidates will model and facilitate best practices in the classroom.

Several guiding principles must shape the clinical experience, including those found in the Kentucky Teacher Performance Standards (KTPS), the InTASC Standards, the Kentucky Framework for Teaching (KyFfT), Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Kentucky Academic Standards (KAS). During Clinical II: Student Teaching, the TC will complete the Clinical II Teacher Performance Assessment (TPA), which includes the following tasks:

- Task E: Formal Observations
- Task F: Lesson Reflection
- Task G: Analysis of Student Learning
- Task H: Records and Communication
- Task I: Professional Involvement Log
- Task J: Professional Growth Plan
- Task K: Technology Evaluation

In addition, the TC will participate in identified professional growth activities, and the cooperating teacher will provide weekly feedback related to TC progress. Professional growth activities include assuming gradual teaching responsibility, instructional planning, and participation in both instructional and non-instructional duties.

We hope this will be a meaningful experience for the cooperating teacher as well as the TC. These new professionals bring excitement, energy, and new ideas that can be invigorating. Cooperating teachers can feel good about the investment that they make in the futures of aspiring teachers and in the profession of teaching. The Patton College of Education thanks the cooperating teachers for accepting this responsibility. This handbook should provide a basic outline of the role of the TC and the cooperating teacher. Due to ongoing changes in education, this handbook will be updated as needed. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact us. (Contact information is on page 2.)

Unified in the pursuit of excellence in teaching and learning

- We believe in offering a challenging academic program that focuses on research-based educational practices.
- We believe that passion must be the touchstone of all teaching.
- We believe in making the transition from the university classroom to students' clinical year a seamless experience.
- We believe that high-quality teachers meet the needs of every student in their classes.
- We believe that exceptional teachers not only help students be successful, but they also empower them to adapt, continuously learn, and thrive in an ever-changing world.

Philosophy of the Patton College of Education
"Unified in the pursuit of excellence in teaching and learning" serves as the organizing theme that undergirds and guides all the professional education programs at the University of Pikeville. Preparing highly skilled teachers, teacher leaders, and school/district administrators to meet the needs of the rural districts and schools in which they will serve is the mission of the Patton College of Education. By partnering with the surrounding rural schools and districts, it is our goal to design and implement quality educator training programs that will prepare candidates to successfully lead students, schools, and districts as they build upon the strengths and positively face the challenges of rural education.

Diversity
Recognizing that students have diverse needs is central to "Unified in the pursuit of excellence in teaching and learning." Although researchers have not produced an empirical study that can isolate all the elements that make a teacher effective, some general components of exceptional practice have been catalogued (Doran & Fleischman, 2005). To be effective, teachers must develop a holistic approach to education that focuses on educating the cognitive, social, emotional, physical, and ethical aspects of each diverse student (Weimer, 2002). Sensitivity to diversity and recognition of the value of diversity is necessary in a democratic society. Teachers must value the diversity in their classrooms and recognize the contributions and experiences it brings (Banks, 2006). Students bring a legacy of experiences, culture, family, interests, values, talents, aspirations, geographies, and other differences that make them and their learning needs unique (Delpit, 2003). The teacher must learn to recognize, accept, appreciate, and teach each of these students accordingly. Therefore, addressing the diverse needs of students is integrated across the curriculum within our teacher education programs.

Technology
The professional education programs at the University of Pikeville require candidates to develop technology skills through explicit instruction on how to implement technology to enhance learning and to create assignments that utilize technology for various purposes. Incorporating the new possibilities that these resources represent into teaching and learning creates efficiency and opportunities to reach and motivate learners. Modeling the willingness to adapt to new tools and commitment to the development of knowledge and skills to enhance teaching practices creates a culture of lifelong learning for the candidates and the faculty.

Use of technology is integrated throughout all teacher preparation programs at the University of Pikeville. The use of instructional technology is explicitly taught in EDU 205: Technology in Education. During this course, aspiring teachers have the opportunity to become Google Certified Educators.

Categories of Knowledge
To be able to make reflective, analytical decisions, teachers need multiple categories of knowledge, multiple areas of teacher competence, and appropriate professional dispositions. These categories of knowledge, areas of teacher competence, and appropriate professional dispositions serve as the foundation for training and experience for the University of Pikeville's teacher candidates. The University of Pikeville's teacher preparation programs delineate three categories of knowledge: General Knowledge, Specialization Knowledge, and Professional

Knowledge. Proficiency in these categories of knowledge empowers candidates to become effective teachers by providing a wide range of opportunities to think critically and explore concepts that will prepare them for exceptional practice in the classroom. These categories of knowledge are assessed in each program.

Areas of Teacher Competence
An effective teacher needs multiple areas of competence. In Kentucky, education centers on performance-based, student-centered instruction with clearly articulated standards at all levels of education. The areas of teacher competence focus on helping candidates meet the Kentucky Teacher Performance Standards (KTPS), which are congruent to the InTASC Standards. The standards encompass the skills that an effective teacher must employ, and we assess candidates' progress at meeting these standards as they progress through our undergraduate education programs.

Professional Dispositions
To be effective, teachers must be committed to certain professional dispositions. The teacher preparation programs at the University of Pikeville are committed to developing the professional dispositions. To assess candidate dispositions, the Patton College of Education adopted the Candidate Disposition Inventory created by Vincent Rinaldo, PhD, and Chandra Foote, PhD (2017) presented at the Kentucky Association of Colleges for Teacher Education Meeting by Vincent Rinaldo and Thomas Sheeran in October 2017. The study on the dispositions instrument was initiated in 2004, and "currently over 200 institutions across the U.S. are using the instrument and or process in whole or part" (Rinaldo & Sheeran, 2017). The identified dispositions align well with Kentucky's Professional Code of Ethics for Educators and the University of Pikeville's vision of empowering teachers to serve and lead in rural Appalachia and beyond.

Quality Assurance System and Evaluation
The organizing theme that undergirds and guides all the professional education programs at the University of Pikeville is "Unified in the pursuit of excellence in teaching and learning." The knowledge, skills, and dispositions necessary to be an effective teacher and teacher leader are reflected in the PCOE vision, mission, and beliefs. As we work to prepare teachers and teacher leaders for P-12 classrooms, the QAS provides the roadmap for collecting and analyzing student, program, and operational data for continuous improvement of our teacher education programs.

Progression through any of the University of Pikeville's initial teacher education programs requires passage through a series of steps, which mirror the well-known "99 Steps" at the University of Pikeville. Multiple sources of data are utilized in assessing applicants' qualifications and candidates' and graduates' performances as they progress through each step. Therefore, our Quality Assurance System includes a comprehensive and systematic assessment plan.

At the initial certification level, assessments focus on the three categories of knowledge, which include general knowledge, specialization knowledge, and professional knowledge, in addition to teacher competencies and dispositions. Teacher education candidates are evaluated at the appropriate assessment checkpoints beginning with the pre-step and progressing through Steps 1-3. Before exiting undergraduate programs, teacher education candidates must demonstrate competency in the Kentucky Teacher Performance Standards, which are congruent to the InTASC Standards, and the Kentucky Framework for Teaching. They must also commit to and demonstrate the professional dispositions.

To achieve their goals of becoming effective teachers, candidates must meet identified criteria at each step before they can progress to the next step.
- Pre-Step represents Conditional Admission to the Undergraduate Teacher Education Program.
- Step 1 represents full Admission to the Undergraduate Teacher Education Program for Clinical I.
- Step 2 represents Admission to Clinical II for Student Teaching.
- Step 3 represents Teacher Education Program Exit.

Clinical Personnel

Clinical faculty are school and higher education faculty selected by the Patton College of Education and partnering schools who are responsible for instruction, supervision, and assessment of candidates during clinical experiences and clinical practice. Criteria for selection of clinical faculty:

Clinical faculty from higher education must have:
- contemporary professional experiences in P-12 school settings;
- preparation for role as mentor, supervisor, and evaluator.

Coordinator of Clinical Experiences/University Supervisor

The Coordinator of Clinical Experiences serves as the University Supervisor and works with Clinical I and Clinical II teacher candidates, cooperating teachers, and principals. He/she collaboratively works with site selection, placement, and supervision. In addition, he/she coordinates any in-service activities for cooperating teachers, conducts Clinical II seminars, and oversees the whole function of clinical experiences. Responsibilities include:
- assisting the teacher education candidate and the cooperating teacher;
- observing and evaluating the progress of the teacher candidate;
- providing assistance to the teacher candidate in the areas of knowledge, skills, and professional dispositions; and
- assigning a grade to teacher education candidate.

Cooperating Teacher

The cooperating teacher is a teacher employed in a school in Kentucky who is contracting with a teacher education institution to supervise a Clinical I or Clinical II teacher candidate for the purpose of fulfilling the Clinical I or Clinical II requirements of the approved teacher preparation program.

Cooperating Teacher Eligibility Requirements (16 KAR 5:040):

1) The cooperating teacher, whether serving in a public or nonpublic school, shall have:
    a) A valid teaching certificate or license for each grade and subject taught; and
    b) At least three (3) years of teaching experience as a certified educator.

2) A teacher assigned to a teaching position on the basis of a provisional or emergency certificate issued by the Education Professional Standards Board shall not be eligible for serving as a cooperating teacher.

3) Prior to student teacher placement, a cooperating teacher shall receive training approved by the Education Professional Standards Board and provided at no cost to the cooperating teacher by the educator preparation institution which shall include the following components:
    a) Basic responsibilities of a cooperating teacher;
    b) Best practice in supporting the student teacher; and
    c) Effective assessment of the student teacher.

In addition, UPIKE requires that the cooperating teacher:
- shall have taught in the present school system at least one (1) year immediately prior to being assigned a student teacher;
- shall have the principals recommendation;
- shall support the mission of the University of Pikeville's teacher education program.

The University of Pikeville also recommends that the cooperating teacher shall teach at a Kentucky school within a fifty-mile radius of the University of Pikeville to enable cooperation with the University Supervisor; however, with approval of remote observations, the Director of Teacher Education and the University Supervisor will consider requests beyond the 50 mile radius on a case-by-case basis.

Responsibilities of the Cooperating Teacher for Clinical II

The person most influential in guiding the teacher candidate (TC) in the development of his/her teaching skills is the cooperating teacher. During the process of daily supervisory contact, the cooperating teacher will model, guide, encourage, and evaluate the TC. Faced with the two-fold responsibility of your daily teaching duties and the beginning induction of a TC into the professional ranks, the cooperating teacher may find the following suggestions helpful.

Standards:
- Assist the TC to develop competency in the Kentucky Teacher Performance/InTASC Standards and the Kentucky Framework for Teaching.
- Assist the TC in preparing unit/lessons that address the Kentucky Academic Standards (KAS).

Preparation & Instruction:
- Guide your TC through daily planning and instruction.
- Assist your TC in finding teaching methods most suitable for them.
- Be a resource for your TC as they complete Tasks E-J in the Clinical II Teacher Performance Assessment (TPA).
- Induct your TC gradually into teaching through progressive involvement as he/she demonstrates capability.
- Encourage other school personnel to be a resource for your TC, when necessary.
- Participate in the implementation of appropriate *Co-Teaching strategies. (examples on page 58)
    a. One Teach – One Observe
    b. One Teach – One Assist
    c. Station Teaching
    d. Parallel Teaching
    e. Supplemental
    f. Alternative (Differentiated)
    g. Team Teaching

*Remember, Co-Teaching is now an integral component of the Clinical II experience. Teacher candidates will be expected to document co-teaching experiences during their observations by the University Supervisor and throughout the semester.

Observation & Reflection:
- Conduct four formal observations (document in Foliotek).
- Assist your TC in self-evaluating his/her performance.
- Confer with your TC about the results from formative and summative observations.
- Assist your TC about his/her professional growth plan.

Other:
- Complete end-of-year surveys.
- Digitally sign off as the Cooperating Teacher for EPSB.
- Active participate in the Exit Interview with your TC and the University Supervisor.
- Complete the New Teacher Survey if it is available (administered every two years).

- You will be asked to submit a weekly reflection regarding the completion of the identified professional growth activities and will report any absences/tardy.
- Your TC will be designing two lesson sequences (5-7 day units) that involves four tasks: contextual data on students, learning objectives, an assessment plan, and the completed lesson plans. Assist your TC with the topic and be a resource for him/her in the development of the lesson sequence. The first submission will serve as a formative assessment, and the second submission will serve as a summative assessment.

Additional Notes:
You have been selected by your principal and the Patton College of Education because you are a master teacher, and we want our TC to observe and participate in good teaching strategies. Please do not leave the TC alone in the classroom or allow him/her to teach your class independently unless the TC is a qualified substitute teacher who has been hired by the district. We limit the days of serving as a substitute teacher to 10 per semester.

Each cooperating teacher will be asked to complete a data sheet so that we can enter the correct information in the reporting system.

Co-Teaching Assessment

I. Teacher Candidate Assessment

Continuous assessment of the teacher candidate's progress is essential. Formative and summative assessment components comprise the continuous assessment of the teacher candidate. These pieces of data are collected through informal and formal measures. It is important to note that a teacher candidate is evaluated by multiple measures. Informal measures include the following components:

Formative Assessment
- Daily communication with cooperating teacher
- Review of lesson/unit plans with cooperating teacher and University Supervisor
- Conferences with University Supervisor
- Midterm evaluation

Summative Assessment
- Assessments of Lesson Taught
- Exit interview
- Teacher Performance Assessment (TPA) Tasks
- Dispositions Survey

II. Program Assessment

Both the Patton College of Education and the Teacher Education Committee firmly believe that the undergraduate Teacher Education Programs should be systematically evaluated by program graduates. Through such evaluation, the College of Education and the Teacher Education Committee receive feedback on the strengths and weaknesses of the program's components. Program evaluation by graduates is conducted in this manner:

- Each program graduate evaluates the program at the completion of Clinical II by completing the Unit Operations Survey.
- The New Teacher Survey is administered by the state every two years.
- Alumni Survey is sent to graduates.
- Other Surveys to gather input about our teacher education programs

Policies for the Clinical II Experiences

Professional Conduct. The teacher candidate is expected to act in a professional manner related to confidentiality, attendance, and dress. Everything that occurs in the school setting is expected to be kept confidential (i.e., student records, grades, family concerns, professional opinions, "gripes," and "humorous" occasions). Teacher candidates should be in their assigned schools at the time designated by the cooperating teacher and University Supervisor. The teacher candidate is expected to follow the same schedule and engage in the same duties and experiences as the cooperating teacher. If ill, the teacher candidate must notify the cooperating teacher and the University Supervisor and report the absence/tardy on professional growth/weekly reflection sheet. Appropriate professional dress is expected of the teacher candidate. Teacher candidates must follow the dress code of the district and school of placement.

Placement. If the teacher candidate has children in a school, relatives employed by a school, or other close relatives in administrative positions at a school, he/she will not be placed in that school to complete Clinical I.

Schedule. During Clinical I, the teacher candidate will follow the academic calendar set by the University of Pikeville. During Clinical II, each teacher candidate will follow the calendar of the school where he/she is co-teaching. The teacher candidate shall report to his/her designated school when instructed to do so by the University Supervisor and shall continue working until instructed not to do so. The teacher candidate shall report to the school every day from the beginning of the experience to the end. The only exception will be required seminars and documented illness or other emergencies.

Seminar Attendance. Attendance at each scheduled seminar is required. If an emergency occurs, the teacher candidate should notify the University Supervisor. These seminars will provide opportunities to reflect on the experiences gained in co- teaching. In addition, they will contain information regarding the completion of the teacher performance assessment and professional growth activities, and management concerns related to completing co-teaching.

Fair Policy for Dismissal/Termination. Periodic review of the teaching performance of the teacher candidate, including professional responsibilities, is done by the cooperating teacher and the University Supervisor. On occasion, the principal may visit as well. If these performance reviews, which include, but are not limited to, consistency in attendance, punctuality, preparedness for all duties, and engaging students appropriately in learning, are perceived as unsatisfactory by any of the parties, then the following procedures are followed: a conference is called to discuss intervention strategies (please see table below):

Procedures for Supporting/Counseling Candidates and Possible Program Dismissal Initial Certification Teacher Education Programs
Before Full Admission	After Full Admission to Clinical I
The faculty member or members contact the candidate to address the issues/concerns. This can include difficulty completing coursework, meeting criteria, attendance, professional dispositions, etc., and will be specific to each candidate. The faculty member will document the details of this meeting.	After the faculty member or cooperating teacher discusses the issues/concerns with the teacher candidate and no improvement is observed, then the University Clinical Supervisor is contacted by the faculty member or the cooperating teacher. (This process will be addressed in initial cooperating teacher training.) In turn, the University Supervisor will meet with the candidate to address the issues/concerns, and the details of this meeting will be documented.
If the issues/concerns are not resolved, and improvement is not evident, then the faculty consults with Dr. Parsley, the Director of Teacher Education, and a specific improvement plan is developed with the faculty, the teacher candidate, and Dr. Parsley. Each plan will identify a timeline for implementation, next steps for improvement, and responsibilities of the teacher candidate. The implementation of the improvement plan will be monitored by the faculty and Dr. Parsley.	If the issues/concerns are not resolved, and improvement is not evident, then the University Supervisor consults with Dr. Parsley, the Director of Teacher Education, and a specific improvement plan is developed with the University Supervisor, the teacher candidate, and Dr. Parsley. Each plan will identify a timeline for implementation, next steps for improvement, and responsibilities of the teacher candidate.
If the candidate is unable to meet criteria or make the needed improvement(s) to be successful in the initial teacher certification program, then the candidate will be dismissed from the program.	If the candidate is unable to meet criteria or make the needed improvement(s) to be successful in the initial teacher certification program, then the candidate will be dismissed from the program.

Please see the Appeals/Due Process Policy below.

As indicated in the table above, if, after a reasonable period of time, there is no improvement in the candidate's performance, and the candidate's behaviors become a distraction to the learning of P-12 students in the classroom, the teacher candidate will be dismissed and withdrawn from the experience as these behaviors indicate that the candidate is not ready for clinical experiences in the P-12 classroom. A teacher candidate who perceives the decision to be wrong and is unable to resolve the issue through discussion with the personnel may follow the Appeals/Due Process Policy. Details of the process (both before and after full admission) are identified below.

If a teacher candidate does not display minimum competency in all of the required standards by the end of the normal length of the Clinical I experience, the length of the Clinical I experience can be extended to see if competence in each standard can be acquired. Any teacher candidate who fails to display competence in all standards after a reasonable amount of time following the normal length of a teaching semester will receive a grade of "Fail" for the applicable course or course(s) in which he/she registered.

While the University Supervisor has the final say in determining the overall grade of each teacher candidate, each candidate's cooperating teacher(s), as well as the school's principal, will play very important roles in determining if a teacher candidate will successfully meet the criteria for the completion of Clinical I and admission to Clinical II.

*Appeals/Due Process Policy
Who is eligible to appeal?

Candidates who:
- Were denied admission to the Teacher Education Program or the Master of Arts in Education: Teacher Leader Program.
- Were removed from the Teacher Education Program or the Master of Arts in Education: Teacher Leader Program.
- Were not recommended for exit from the Teacher Education Program or the Master of Arts in Education: Teacher Leader Program.

Grounds for appeal:
The candidate can appeal on the basis of violations of Teacher Education Program policy or procedure that results in a decision that the candidate believes was inaccurate. The only appeals submitted to the Teacher Education Appeals Committee, which includes the candidate's advisor, the Dean of the College of Arts and Science, a representative from the Teacher Education Committee, and the Director of Teacher Education, are those related to entry, exit, or continuation in any teacher education program. All other appeals, e.g. grade appeals, probation or suspension from the University, etc., are handled according to the appeals policies outlined in the University of Pikeville Catalog and the University of Pikeville Student Handbook.

Procedures for appeal:
Candidates who wish to appeal any Teacher Education Appeals Committee decision will meet with their education faculty adviser to discuss the decision.

The candidate must appeal the decision by writing a letter to the Director of Teacher Education that clearly states the part or parts of policies or procedures that the candidate feels is unjust. The Director of Teacher Education will forward the letter to the Appeals Committee.

The Appeals Committee will meet with the candidate, normally within one week of receipt of the appeals letter. At the appeals meeting, all factual information related to the petition will be presented by the Director of Teacher Education. The petitioner will be allowed 30 minutes to make his/her presentation and to answer questions posed by the individual members of the committee. The petitioner will be excused before deliberation by the committee begins. The Appeals Committee will consider the petitioner's appeal and reach a decision regarding the petition. The petitioner will receive written notification within 5 working days of the hearing.

Welcome to Clinical II: Student Teaching

Congratulations on your successful progress toward completion of your education program! You will begin this process with an orientation meeting with the University Supervisor to review the program expectations and assessment tasks. This will help ensure that you are meeting the required standards so that you will be ready for your own classroom in the near future.

You planned two units last semester during Clinical I and had the opportunity to co-teach the units with your cooperating teacher. Now that your Clinical II experiences are underway, you will be able to plan and refine a variety of lesson sequences based on prior instruction and student performance. Some of the questions that you need to ask include:

- When will the students be ready for the content?
- Are there components of the lessons based on students' current levels of performance?
- Should the pacing of instruction be adjusted based on your current knowledge of students?

Before beginning instruction, it is essential to identify the pre-assessment used to establish your students' baseline knowledge and skills for the first lesson. Analyze this data to determine the appropriate starting point for your instruction. Any potential student misconceptions can be listed in Section 6 of the lesson plan.

Keep in mind that formative assessment results will guide your instruction. Ongoing progress monitoring will help you decide how to proceed each day. While you may have planned a lesson for a specific amount of time, the pace of instruction may need adjustment depending on how well students grasp the content. If students face challenges, the lesson may extend beyond the planned timeframe. On the other hand, if students quickly master the material, the lesson may conclude sooner.

Through these classroom experiences, you will recognize the value of formative assessment data and learn how to use it to address the diverse learning needs of your students. As a result, it is important to revise your lesson plans during the unit to reflect adjustments made based on ongoing formative data.

Additionally, you will need to complete additional tasks (see appendix) including a reflection on the observed lesson and an analysis of pre and post assessment data to evaluate student mastery of the learning targets/objectives.

The University Supervisor will visit your classroom to informally observe and meet with you many times throughout the semester; however, you will be formally observed teaching a lesson by the University Supervisor four times and by your cooperating teacher(s) four times during Clinical II. After each observed lesson, you must complete a lesson reflection (Task F page 62). See the appendix beginning on page 60, for an overview of the Clinical II Assessment Tasks:

		Post Observation Reflection:

		Reflection is the thoughtful consideration of those decisions in light of their impact on student learning to determine what aspects of instruction need to be changed and what aspects should be continued. The accuracy and specificity of your reflection and the validity of actions based on the reflection will depend on the extent to which the reflection is based on accurate performance data. During your student teaching, your cooperating teacher and University Supervisor will help you refine your skill of reflection. Accurate reflection is the basis for planning and implementing both instruction that is responsive to your students' needs and professional learning that is responsive to your needs.
			1) The teacher education candidate will engage in ongoing professional learning, shall use evidence to continually evaluate his or her practice, particularly the effects of his or her choices and actions on others, such as learners, families, other professionals, and the community, and shall adapt practice to meet the needs of each learner. • Teacher's questions are of low cognitive challenge, require single correct responses, and are asked in rapid succession. • Interaction between teacher and students is predominantly recitation style, with the teacher mediating all questions and answers. • A few students dominate the discussion.	• Teacher's questions lead students through a single path of inquiry, with answers seemingly determined in advance. • Alternatively, the teacher attempts to frame some questions designed to promote student thinking and understanding, but only a few students are involved. • Teacher attempts to engage all students in the discussion and to encourage them to respond to one another, but with uneven results.	• Although the teacher may use some low-level questions, he or she asks the students questions designed to promote thinking and understanding. • Teacher creates a genuine discussion among students, providing adequate time for students to respond and stepping aside when appropriate. • Teacher successfully engages most students in the discussion, employing a range of strategies to ensure that most students are heard.	• Teacher uses a variety or series of questions or prompts to challenge students cognitively, advance high-level thinking and discourse, and promote metacognition. • Students formulate many questions, initiate topics, and make unsolicited contributions. • Students themselves ensure that all voices are heard in the discussion.

Clinical I: Must be completed at Midterm and the End of Clinical I by the University Supervisor, Cooperating Teacher, and Education Faculty.

Candidate Disposition Inventory

Dispositions are operationally defined as tendencies or beliefs that are conveyed or made public through observable behaviors. Identify your choice by selecting the appropriate level. Complete the following inventory using the excel sheet provided in accord with the following scale as a means to describe the manner in which each behavior has been exemplified. Please remember that students are graded with respect to their level of acceptable behavior or their deviation from it. A score of 3 is given to students for whom you have not observed any behaviors that would lead you to believe that their dispositions are anything other than acceptable. Scores that approach 1 should be given to students who exhibit less than acceptable behaviors and scores that approach 5 should be reserved for students who exhibit exceptional behaviors

Co-Teaching Strategies & Examples

Strategy	Definition/Example
One Teach, One Observe	One teacher hos primary responsibility while the other gathers specific observational information on students or the (instructing) teacher. The key to this strategy is to focus the observation - where the teacher doing the observation is observing specific behaviors. Example: One teacher can observe students for their understanding of directions while the other leads.
One Teach, One Assist	An extension of One Teach, One Observe. One teacher hos primary instructional responsibility while the other assists students with their work. monitors behaviors or corrects assignments. Example: While one teacher hos the instructional lead. the person assisting can be the "voice" for the students when they don't understand or are having difficulties.
Station Teaching	The co-teaching pair divides the instructional content into parts - Each teacher instructs one of the groups. groups then rotate or spend a designated amount of time at each station - often on independent station will be used along with the teacher led stations. Example: One teacher might lead a station where the students play o money math game and the other teacher could have a mock stare where the students purchase items and make change.
Parallel Teaching	Each teacher instructs half the students. The two teachers are addressing the same instructional material and presenting the material using the same teaching strategy. The greatest benefit to this approach is the reduction of student to teacher ratio. Example: Both teachers are leading a question and answer discussion on specific current events and the impact they hove on our economy.
Supplemental Teaching	This strategy allows one teacher to work with students at their expected grade level, while the other teacher works with those students who need the information and/or materials retaught. extended or remediated. Example: One teacher may work with students who need reteaching of a concept while the other teacher works with the rest of the students on enrichment.
Alternative (Differentiated)	Alternative teaching strategies provide two different approaches to teaching the same information. The learning outcome is the same for all students; however the avenue for getting there is different. Example: One instructor may lead o group in predicting prior to reading by looking at the cover of the book and the illustrations, etc. The other instructor accomplishes the same outcome but with his/her group, the students predict by connecting the items pulled out of the bog with the story.
Team Teaching	Well planned, team taught lessons, exhibit on invisible flow of instruction with no prescribed division of authority. Using a team teaching strategy. both teachers ore actively involved in the lesson. From a students' perspective, there is no clearly defined leader - as both teachers share the instruction, are free to interject information, and available to assist students and answer questions. Example: Both instructors con share the reading of a story or text so that the students ore hearing two voices.

The strategies are not hierarchical - they can be used in any order and/or combined to best meet the needs of the students in the classroom.
